Loops not lining up?

Don't worry. ALL loops and clips are either snapped to a bar, or a beat. So as long as you set your audio sequencer to snap to beats, you can experiment with moving the loop/clip backwards or forwards one beat at a time until it sounds right.

The reason we sometimes left silence in front of the audio is that live sounds, such as guitars and vocals, aren't always 100% on grid. It's the human factor.

Sometimes a vocal or a guitar part starts milliseconds earlier than the grid. If we'd cut this, it would have sounded weird.
